

Reasons Why For A 2009 Majorca Holiday

With budget airlines, alternatives to a Majorca holiday are plentiful, and sometimes cheaper too, but is Majorca still a good place for a holiday?

Three of the most popular beaches in Majorca are Ca'n Pastilla, Playa Muro and El Arenal. Palma is the capital city of the island. The peak tourist season for the island starts in April and goes through to end September. The variety of vegetation and scenic areas in Majorca offer a wonderful array of excursion possibilities. There are forests of lush pine trees. Serene coves are found around the coast of the island. There are numerous pristine beaches for sunbathers.

There is no shortage of activities for families on holiday. Railways offer peaceful journeys to remote villages. Palma the capital of Majorca offers art galleries, clubs, Le Seu Cathedral, Bellver Castle and dinner theaters.

Majorca also offers sporting enthusiasts a variety of activities. There are several golf courses for you to test your skills or just relax. Many marinas offer rental items, such as jet skis or ATV vehicles that allow the adventurous tourist a unique experience. Plus also available for holidays in Majorca, there is also sea kayaking and mountain climbing. Scuba diving and cycling are other popular activities. It is child friendly, and children are welcome at most establishments on the island. Even the first class dining restaurants welcome families of all ages and sizes. For the family on their holidays in Majorca, you can look forward to numerous water parks, a drive-through safari zoo and marine life attractions. Majorca also offers submarine tours to watch undersea life.

Majorca offers opera houses for those who love classical music. There are many theatres and dance performances to suit a variety of tastes. Visitors can enjoy folk music in a variety of settings. There are also contemporary performances by DJs, and July is the Festival Isladecanta. This annual celebration brings people together from all around the world to celebrate electronic music.

Shopping enthusiasts will find virtually any product imaginable on the island of Majorca. Most villages on a map of Majorca have crafts and handmade goods at many of the small open markets. Designer products can be found at the shopping malls. The hours for the shops and boutiques typically allow an extended lunch break. Tourists and visitors should make a note of this if they are interested in shopping. The small open markets are open weekly, and it's best to arrive early in the morning.

For those who love their nightlife, Majorca also offers a variety of attractions. World famous clubs and low-key cafes will keep you occupied until dawn. Establishments offer a variety of atmosphere and can occupy those craving fast dance clubs or soothe and calm those who enjoy a good jazz session.

With the proper planning and awareness while you are there, your holidays can be a wonderful experience just as much this year as any other. Travel experts recommend that tourists observe the usual cautions, such as carefully crossing streets and proper placement of valuables in your clothing. Also, avoid any unusual offers for free products such as televisions or other major awards - keep away from timeshare.

The island has established itself as a worthy attraction for several years, and the current outlook predicts this island will only continue to offer more. If you're considering taking your holidays in Majorca for 2009, have a look at companies such as Thomas Cook for their Majorca deals and go ahead and book for your summer holiday!

About the Author

Cheap flight to Majorca deals are on offer for this summer are on-line at yourmajorca.net along with tour operators with packages for Majorca hotel and other Majorca holiday temptations.

Source: TravelFreeGuides.com